1. General:

a. [REDACTED] attended a briefing on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) new Program Support Communications Network (PSCN) on 4 November 1986 in the Office of Information Technology (OIT) conference room. The NASA PSCN, which is an integrated services (voice, data, message and video) digital switched network, combines the best features in current technology to provide the robust and dynamic network required by NASA into the twenty-first century. Several senior and mid-level managers from the Office of Communications and OIT also attended this timely briefing. An open invitation was extended for Agency representatives to visit the NASA facilities at the Goddard and Marshall Space Flight Centers to view the Program Support Communications Network first hand. 25X1
